LETTER TO PEKING GIVES DETAILS OF STEVENS CASE

Detention Orew Out Of Political Broils Of Chinese Militarists

IN NO DANGER AT PRESENT

Tuchun Holds Father And 13 Other Relatives Of Missionary's Abductor

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, June 8.—A letter received in Peking from Sianfu, dated May 16, gives the following information regarding the Stevens case:

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, members of the China Inland Mission, have been stationed for many years at Fengshangfu and have gained the respect and esteem of the people.

They have carefully abstained from interference with any of the many political disputes which have centered round their city in the past few years. The Tuchen of Sianfu and other high officials in Sianfu readily admit this.

Kuoh Chien, the leader of the forces now besieging Fengshang, has been a Government official, outlaw, brigand and again Government official in turn, but is now again looked upon as a brigand leader by the Chinese authorities. For some years he served with the present Tuchen of Sianfu and then was outlawed and has since vowed vengeance upon General Chen Shu-fan. After a number of years of almost continuous fighting he surrendered to General Hsu Lan-chow, who was in command of the troops sent from Fengshang and stationed in the Fengshang district.

Kuoh Chien's surrender was accepted by the Central Government and he was given an appointment as Military Commandant at Fengshang. His surrender occurred about February 1919, when he has kept the peace. Hsu Lan-chow's troops were recalled about a year ago. During February of this year Kuoh Chien evidently had trouble with one of his subordinates, a man named Liu Fu-tien. As his idea of the easiest way out of the trouble Kuoh invited him to lunch and shot him.

KUOH OUTLAWED

General Chen then outlawed Kuoh, whose right-hand man is a certain Major Wei, but the latter was a close friend of Liu Fu-tien and is said to have resented Kuoh's action.

It is alleged that Wei then secretly leagued himself with the Tuchen and promised to open the gates of Fengshang to the Tuchen's troops. When Chen's troops advanced, however, Wei failed to assist them and with Kuoh presented a solid front against General Chen's forces. The Tuchen thereupon seized Major Wei's father, who was living in his home at Hwang-hsien. Some members of the families of Wei's subordinates were also seized. Wei was then informed that these people would be executed unless he surrendered.

Wei's next move was to send for Mr. and Mrs. Stevens and tell them that they must save his father's life. Mr. Stevens replied that he could not interfere with an affair of a political nature which did not concern him in any way. Wei replied that he would hold the life of Mr. Stevens forfeit for that of his father.

Mr. Stevens was then forced to write a letter to Mr. Shorrocks, of the Baptist Mission in Sianfu explaining the situation and Mrs. Stevens was sent with the letter. A few days later the city Mrs. Stevens reached the camp of Tuchen Chen's soldiers under the command of Colonel Chang Fei-seng. On interviewing Colonel Chang, Mrs. Stevens was told that Wei's father had been shot on the previous day. Mrs. Stevens arrived at Sianfu on May 3.

When the Tuchen was first interviewed about the affair he clearly stated that Wei's father had been shot, but later on he admitted that this was not so. Since then reliable information has been received that the old man is in the hands of Colonel Chang.

STEVENS WRITES

Several letters have been received from Mr. Stevens in which he states that he is kept closely guarded in the camp of Major Wei and is not allowed to return to his own house though his cook is permitted to prepare his food and take it to him.

Mrs. Stevens is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Shorrocks at Sianfu. On May 15, Messrs. Shorrocks and Andrews interviewed the Tuchen's Chief of Staff and asked for per-

AEROS TAKE PART IN COUNTY CORK BATTLE, 3 SLAIN

Hundred Fully Armed Sinn Feiners Captured—Fighting Continues

(Reuter's Service)
London, June 7.—An encircling movement by military, supported by aeroplanes, at Millstreet, County Cork, ended a battle in which three Sinn Feiners were killed and twelve wounded while a hundred fully equipped rebels were captured. The casualties amongst the Crown forces are slight. The operations are still in progress.

London, June 7.—Three death sentences promulgated in Dublin on May 31, including that of a member of the Royal Irish Constabulary for murder, were carried out today.

London, June 8.—A systematic campaign of telegraph and telephone wire cutting was carried out about midnight last night in the Uxbridge and Hounslow districts by six armed Sinn Feiners in a motor-lorry who, after seriously damaging thirty wires, drove rapidly toward London. A man whom the Sinn Feiners held up with revolvers informed the police, who are searching for the perpetrators.

OTHER OUTRAGES

Similar outrages occurred in the Liverpool district simultaneously. The police intercepted a party of wire cutters at Gateacre and shots were fired on both sides. It is reported that the wire cutters have been surrounded in a wood.

A large number of telegraph and telephone wires were cut in several places around London, including many telegraph and signal wires on the Great Western and South Eastern and Chatham Railways.

London, June 7.—Brilliant weather attended the first sitting today of the Northern Parliament at the Belfast City Hall, the entrance to which was strongly guarded by police and military.

Replying to an address from the city corporation, the Viceroy, Viscount Fitzalan, said he earnestly hoped that the hour of peace and goodwill had arrived which would be the forerunner of happiness and prosperity for Ireland. Then he was escorted to the Council Chamber, where all the Unionist members were present, but the Nationalists and Sinn Feiners were absent.

THE NEW CABINET
Major Hugh O'Neill was unanimously elected speaker. The members then took the oath and

COMMONS WILL HAVE CHANCE AT ANGLO-JAP PACT

Chamberlain "Has No Doubt House Will Be Able To Discuss Matter"

MEMBER IS INQUISITIVE

Neil MacLean Asks About Status Of Korea And China Under Treaty

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 7.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Neil MacLean repeated his question with regard to the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, as to whether the Government intended to renew the Anglo-Japanese Treaty, whether the terms of the treaty would be submitted to the House of Commons for ratification, whether the Government would insist on Japan's recognizing her obligations to maintain the independence and territorial integrity of Korea and China, and whether the restoration of Korea's national institutions and the cancellation of the Sino-Japanese Treaty resulting from Japan's ultimatum to China in May, 1915, would be made conditions of the Treaty.

Mr. Chamberlain said he had nothing to add to his previous reply to the effect that the question of the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance would be considered at the forthcoming meeting of the Imperial Cabinet, and that he was unable at present to make a statement in that connection. He pointed out that Korea had been annexed to Japan under a treaty between Japan and Korea in 1910, and that the independence and territorial integrity of Korea were not mentioned in the present Anglo-Japanese Agreement. The treaty, he stated, would undoubtedly be consistent with Great Britain's obligations to the League of Nations. He reiterated that "the Government would come to no decision until it had consulted the Dominions' Prime Ministers, as the Dominions were greatly interested in the matter, and the Government was anxious to have the advantage of their advice before coming to a decision."

The Government, he concluded, would make an announcement in the House of Commons as soon as it could. He had no doubt that the House would be able to discuss the matter if it wished.

LATEST OFFER OF OWNERS PLEASES COAL STRIKERS

Both Sides To Consider New Proposals, Then Meet Again

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 7.—The conference between the coal owners and the miners has adjourned in order to enable both sides to consider the situation separately.

The Miners' Executive sat for three hours in consultation and then decided to ask the owners to make a number of questions, to summon a delegate conference for June 10 and to recommend a ballot of members. Questioned after their meeting, the members of the Miners' Executive appeared most optimistic and declared that the owners' latest proposals were a great improvement on their previous offers, apparently enabling the miners to resume without fear of their wages being reduced below the subsistence level. The Executive intend to use their influence in favor of a settlement.

London, June 7.—In the House of Commons today, despite considerable opposition in the course of the debate, the Safeguarding of Industries bill passed its second reading by a substantial majority.

U.S. Proposes Pact With Mexico

(Reuter's Service)

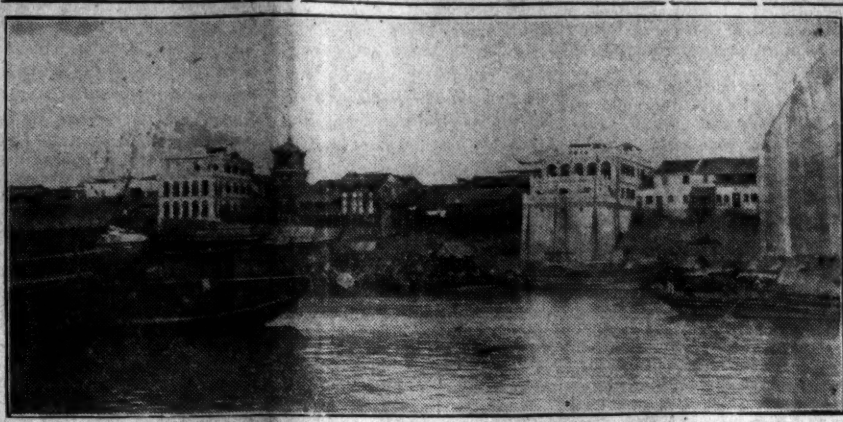

Washington, June 8.—The United States Government has proposed a treaty of "amity and commerce" with Mexico, with a fundamental clause, safeguarding American rights and property against confiscation. It is declared that definite written assurances have been received from Mexico as regards the maintenance of these rights.

AGRICULTURE DECONTROL

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 7.—As a measure of economy the Government has decided to decontrol agriculture, thereby abolishing guaranteed prices for wheat and oats after the next harvest. The Agricultural Wages Board is also to be abolished.

Waterfront Of Ichang, Looted By Soldiers

In the above picture is shown the Bund of the Yangtze port of Ichang, a large part of which was destroyed by fire after mutinous troops for the second time in six months attacked and looted the city. The Bund is a thoroughfare some 400 yards in length on which are located nearly all of the foreign business establishments of the port.

EX-SECRETARY IN N. ZEALAND ASKS FEDERATION PLAN

Sir John Findlay Wants Great Britain To Accept Scheme

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 7.—In a paper read before the Colonial Institute, Sir John Findlay, a former New Zealand Colonial Secretary, recanted his previous support of a definite imperial federation and declared that he agreed with a definite method of inter-imperial co-operation was that whereon the Empire had relied in the past, namely, greater confidence and concert between the overseas autonomous governments and the Mother Country.

The speaker endeavored to meet dissentients from this view by declaring that the speaker's own nation might safely be taken to solve the enigma of how to combine the fullest independence of nationhood with the maximum unity for all great imperial purposes.

He recommended that imperial conferences of overseas Prime Ministers should be held every eighteen months and also subsidiary conferences attended by special representatives. Delivering a Rhodes lecture at University College, Gower St., on "Federation and Confederation in the British Empire," Professor J. Strahan said that as the British Commonwealth had become a model for all free peoples, so Great Britain's mode of dealing with her colonies and dependencies might become a model for all countries dealing with one another.

Mr. Justice Scrutton, who presided at the lecture, wittily described the functions of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. An obscure door in a slum street off Whitehall, he said, led to a very clean-looking room where four or five sleepy old gentlemen sat round a horseshoe table listening to counsel. But the pageant passing from that room was most amazing, for besides the dominions, representatives of India, Mauritius, Trinidad and every colony brought the oddest questions to be decided by that perfectly impartial and trusted tribunal. Hence the Privy Council was known in the obscurest part of the Empire, although the people did not know what it was.

The speaker related the story of the traveler in a remote part of India, who asked worshippers at a certain altar what they were worshipping. They replied: "We do not know, but it is the great god 'Privy Council'."

London, June 7.—The Tasmanian Agent-General, Mr. A. H. Ashbolt, has submitted for discussion by the Imperial Cabinet a proposal that an Imperial Air Company be formed, with a capital of £1,500,000, to take over the airships, material and plant which the British Government is willing to hand over.

He suggests that the company should immediately issue £750,000, India, Australia and South Africa each taking up £100,000, New Zealand £55,000, the Malay States £20,000, and the general public £375,000. He calculates the value of Great Britain's contribution in airships at £275,000. If Egypt desires to join, the amounts can be adjusted to provide for her inclusion.

The control of the company would be invested in a dozen directors, seven of whom would be nominees of the Government. Reuter understands that Major-General Sir Frederick Hugh Sykes, Controller-General of Civil Aviation, will address the Imperial Conference on the question of the establishment of the company.

Ancestors Pet Aversion Of Realty Dealers In China

BY ELSTIE MCCORMICK

The lady who recently struggled through fourteen episodes at a local theater in an attempt to find the five golden petals of Lao-tze had a summer afternoon in a hammock compared with the harassed foreign land buyer who tries to acquire a few deeds to a piece of Chinese property. If it is as hard to read a title clear to mansions in the skies as it is to a bit of land in China lots of people are going to sleep on benches in the celestial parks. When the purchaser finally does receive a deed with the stamp of the tipso, he is all ready to move, a suitcase in the padded cell between the parties who tried to write one of Shakespeare's plays on the back of a postage stamp and the notary who signed all the papers.

Any land in China is a grave proposition. If you don't believe it, ask any furrow-browed missionary who thought he was acquiring an addition to his compound and who discovered later that he was really getting a nest of ancestors. As soon as a foreigner is known to be interested in a bit of land, ancestors sprout all over the property like sprout corn and enough grave mounds put in an appearance to suggest the complexity of the young lady in the advertisement before using Woodbury's Facial Soap.

HOW IT IS WHACKED UP

The problem of the large landholder is practically unknown in China. Sometimes the buyer of land ardently wishes that it wasn't. When the owner of a mow of real estate prepares for his last ride in a box with a white chicken on the top, he does not follow the practice of primogeniture or the selection of a favorite son. Instead, he divides the property into seven-foot furrows called "lings," and leaves one or more to each heir, according to the number of descendants. Upon the death of the second generation owners, the ling is often subdivided again. Considering the length of time that China has been in business, we are surprised that there are any plots of land left larger than a squad of electrons.

This system of land division is a sign-post to one of the reasons why foreign purchasers soon begin to find silver threads among the gold. A mow, which is only one-sixth of an acre, may have as many as ten different owners, to say nothing of other interested parties who had picked out the ground as a comfortable burial place. This means that a separate deed must be secured from each owner, and it might be mentioned incidentally that before a family decides to make the sale, each member must give consent, from the oldest grandmother, whose teeth are only a jagged memory, to the son who has just reached maturity. In addition, a so-called "grave paper" must be secured from those whose interests in the land are below the surface.

CHANCES FOR SLIPPING

Hence a real estate transaction in China has more chances of slipping up than a fat man crossing a street lined with banana stands. Any one of the owners of a mow or two of ground may refuse acquiescence to the sale, and if his ling happens to be in the center of the property, there is nothing for the prospective buyer to do about it except try to bribe him with an additional cunsha or else seek farther for some unoccupied earth. As any member of the family may veto the purchase, a woman who has been waiting for a certain favor will often take advantage of the opportunity and hold up the sale until irate relatives buy the jade pin or lacquered coffin or whatever the sought-for boon might have been. Eventually, of course, it is the new owner who buys the favor in the shape of an increased price.

Sometimes wily Chinese business men hear of a prospective purchase by a foreigner through the underground wireless maintained by houseboys, buy a ling of two in the center from unsuspecting Chinese owners, and then write a Tiffany price-tag for the benefit of the Western purchaser. A case of this sort arose recently when a foreign institution that had been buying a tract for $15,000,000 found themselves in the hands of the Chinese for a small sector in the very middle of the property.

Graves are never bought with the land. They must be acquired separately from the owners, who usually have no family connection whatever with those who possess the rest of the strip. The amount of filial piety which suddenly becomes evident when a foreigner wishes to acquire a grave is enough to make the Chinese sages look like prodigal sons. Occasionally a really sincere family will refuse consent to the grave's removal at any price, and then the buyer must reconcile himself to a hump in the middle of his property that suggests the back profile of a camel.

SILVER DRIES THEIR TEARS

Usually, however, the bereaved relatives will consent to parting with the resting place of the deceased, provided enough banknotes are supplied to wipe away the tears and a paper is given permitting them to visit the spot once or twice a year. A foreigner who gives such a paper need not fear that his dreams will be disturbed by the glow of pink-sticks and of chanting for the dead, for the paper is usually only a matter of "face pidgeon" and an attempt to prove to the ancestor that their intentions are good. Sometimes a family will consent, for adequate compensation, to remove the body, but this often involves patient waiting for a day which the astrologers say is suited to the purpose.

The system of Chinese land registration is a fairly good one. Usually the records are kept in the yamen, where copies of a new deed must be filed when a piece of property changes hands, accompanied by payment of a fee. In some parts of China this fee is a very substantial proportion of the purchase price. Looking up a title sometimes involves a dip into the period when Columbus was in his cradle, watching papa eat spaghetti. A mission which recently bought some land near Shanghai was obliged to follow a long, long trail of genealogy back for five hundred years in order to prove that two opium-smoking brothers who were asking an exorbitant price were not the real owners. They proved it, too, after almost dragging up the family tree by the roots.

In Shanghai, the Chinese owned land in each district is listed on the records of a "tipso" or land registrar. Each bill of sale must be stamped by the tipso before it is valid. Many purchasers in this city make a contract with a land broker for a certain price, who may realize a large profit if he can buy for a less amount, but who, on the other hand, runs the risk of being held up by a wily compatriot in

SOLDIER OUTBREAK AT WUCHANG HALTED; MINT ROBBED; LOOTERS CAUGHT

Hankow Troops Quieted By Payment Of $13,000 By Tuchen; American Trinity School Ransacked; Dissatisfaction Over Disbandment Proclamation Given As Cause Of Uprising; 1,600 Participants In Ichang Disturbance Arrive In Hankow

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Hankow, June 8 (7:50 p.m.).—A pause has been brought about in the outbreak at Wuchang of mutinous troops who looted a large portion of the town after setting it ablaze. No disturbances have occurred so far in Hankow and the soldiers on this side of the river for the time being at least are quiet after having been paid $13,000 today by the Tuchen.

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Hankow, June 8.—Dissatisfied with Tuchen Wang Chuan-yuan of Hupeh for his disbandment scheme, troops of the second division under direct command of the Tuchen suddenly mutinied in Wuchang, the provincial capital, this morning at one o'clock.

Ten different fires were started at the same time. Intermittent firing was heard across the river. The report of the guns became intense at daybreak when the conflagration subsided. Telephone communications with the port across the Yangtze were cut and the gates of the city were closed. Information regarding the present state and the real cause of the mutiny is not obtainable.

The provincial government bank has been looted and razed to the ground. The director of the bank has been severely beaten while one of the bookkeepers was tied with ropes and gagged.

AMERICAN SCHOOL PURCHASES LAND IN FRENCHTOWN

Eighteen Acre Site Acquired; Classroom And Dormitory Planned

Announcement of the purchase of land for the new American School was made yesterday at a meeting of prominent American residents held at the home of Mr. T. E. Doremus, 960 Route Say Zoong.

The property aggregates over 106 mow of land and the purchase price was Taels 190,000. The lot is one block south of Avenue Joffre, west of Route de Say Zoong and will have frontage on the new Avenue Petain, which will run from Rue Francis Garnier to the Sicaewen Cathedral. The property was seen yesterday by local Americans following the announcement at Mr. Doremus' house.

The committee in charge of raising funds for the institution hopes that the first sessions will be held in the new buildings in the fall of next year. Preliminary architects' drawings are now being prepared by Murphy and Dana.

A class room building to accommodate 350 pupils and a dormitory building for 120 pupils and 12 teachers will be built first.

Some Taels 150,000 will be raised in a campaign which will probably be started here early in the Fall.

France To Spend Big Sum On Navy

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 8.—The Government's naval program includes the laying this year of the keels of three scout-cruisers of seven and eight thousand tons each, costing seventy million francs, and of six destroyers, twelve torpedo-boats, and twelve submarines of 1,100 tons each.

The uncompleted battleship Bearn is to be converted into an aeroplane carrier.

The total expenditure involved is estimated at 755,000,000 francs. It will be spread over a period of three years.

Prohibition Good For Grape Growers

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

San Francisco, June 7.—The Grape Growers' Exchange announces that the prices of wine grapes are from $50 to $90 per ton. In the period before prohibition they sold for less than $15 a ton.

LIU CHING-SHAN LEAVES

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 6.—Mr. Liu Ching-shan, newly appointed delegate to the International Technical Commission attached to the Chinese Eastern Railway, has left Peking for Harbin, to take up his duties.

In the uprising in Wuchang the Wuchang Mint was wrecked and looted of everything it contained including a large number of gold and silver bars. Over fifty looters who were arrested by officers of the Defense Commission and detectives were found with silver and gold bars in their possession.

CITY EXCHANGED

The city of Wuchang has been thrown into the wildest state of excitement and terror by the outbreak of the troops and it has been impossible to ascertain the extent of the damage done and the number of casualties. The telephone line between Wuchang and Hankow has been cut. Shortly before 8 o'clock tonight the Wuchang City gates were opened to admit a body of consular representatives. A group of consular officials who applied for admittance earlier in the day were not permitted to enter the city. It is reported here that this latest uprising grew out of dissatisfaction of the soldiers with a proclamation that was issued ordering their disbandment.

SCHOOL RANSACKED

Among other foreign establishments that fell prey to the soldiery is the American Trinity School which was ransacked. The Yamen of the Governor was not attacked and quarters of a number of foreign missionaries and the Y. M. C. A. building were not visited by the looters.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, June 7.—Some 1,600 of the soldiers who were concerned in the looting of Ichang arrived at Hankow this morning, and have been placed in the barracks at Wuchang by orders of the Tuchen, General Wang. It is understood that they will be gradually disbanded.

It appears that these troops were on their way to Hankow with a view to their disbandment. They spent the hours of waiting for the China Merchants' steamer to leave Ichang by going ashore. After a while they started looting, and eventually returned to the steamer with their loot.

The vessel was intercepted during the voyage by orders from the Tuchen that she was to proceed to Hankow direct.

Disturbances Hit Up River Trade During Last Year

The effect of the political disturbances, brigandage and piracy which were rife along the upper reaches of the Yangtze last year are seen in the trade returns just issued by the Maritime Customs for the river ports of Ichang, Wanchow and Chungking.

Junk traffic between Ichang and up-river points ceased almost entirely for several months owing to the attacks of uniformed bandits and pirates and to the exorbitant tolls exacted by the secessionist military chieftains, while even the Chinese steamer trade was throttled, though foreign steamers kept plying to Chungking. Above Ichang save for these latter craft traffic was for some time completely stopped.

The trade value at Chungking fell from HK. Tia. 41,572,332 in 1919 to HK. Tia. 35,429,409 for the year under review, while at Wanchow the net value of trade was 63.43 percent under that for the preceding year. At Ichang the net value of trade shows an increase over 1919 but the report states that the trade passing through the native customs decreased 40 percent, entirely as a result of the decline of junk traffic between Chungking and Ichang due to the illegal taxation imposed by the secessionists.

The report for Ichang characterizes the looting and sacking which occurred there last November as the worst calamity which has befallen the city for 250 years and states that it will take many years for the inhabitants to regain their former state of prosperity.

Opium traffic increased greatly last year between the river towns, the reports state, largely in consequence of the large additional areas given over to poppy cultivation in Kweichow, Yunnan and Szechuen. Smuggling between Chungking and Ichang was enormously accelerated, the Ichang Customs alone seizing 120 piculs, or seven and a half tons, of the drug. Over 56 piculs were seized in Chungking and nearly 22 piculs at Wanchow, the latter mostly from Kweichow; besides which huge quantities were transported by the military, who used the drug to defray expenses.

Aeros Take Part In Battle In Erin

Sir James Craig announced the composition of his Cabinet as follows:

Home Secretary, Sir Dawson Bates; Minister of Finance, Mr. H. M. Pollock; Minister of Education, Lord Londonderry; Minister of Labor, Mr. J. M. Andrews; Minister of Agriculture, Mr. E. M. Archdale.

At a luncheon given subsequently, Sir James Craig announced that the King would open the Parliament on June 22. It is expected that the overseas Prime Ministers will attend.

London, June 8.—The first meeting of the Ulster Parliament is hailed as marking the beginning of a new era in Ireland. Its establishment is recognized as a long and irrefragable step in the right direction.

Though the event itself is apt to be overshadowed owing to the grave state of affairs in other parts of the country, the opinion is expressed that the Dominion Prime Ministers who attend the formal opening by the King on June 22 will see for themselves and be able to inform their peoples, many of whom have been misled and deceived, that there are two Irelands, one of which abhors the reign of violence and outrage under which the other lies prone and helpless. The partition of the country is everywhere regarded as a distasteful and temporary expedient, and the hope is expressed that the Southerners will abandon their attitude of antagonism toward the Southern Parliament and work for a united Ireland.

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

New York, June 6.—The London Times correspondent at Melbourne says that the Australian House of Representatives has defeated the efforts to introduce to the official records the report of the American Commission on Ireland. Sir Robert Best denounced it as a "vile and odious slander on the Empire."

"Little Entente" Fears Pan Germans

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 3.—Pan-German agitation for the unification with Germany of parts of Austria is a matter of serious concern for the so-called Little Entente Powers. The Prague paper Cas says that Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania have agreed upon joint action in the event of such propaganda continuing.

China Advocate Of Disarmament

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 7.—Replying to the League of Nations' recommendation to limit expenditure for armaments, Dr. Wellington Koo, the Chinese Minister, in a note to the Secretary-General of the League, declares that China is in complete sympathy with the spirit of the recommendation, and has decided to give her support to it.

WAGE CUT ORDERED

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 7.—The engineering employers today issued notices of the proposed reductions of wages comprising a cut of six shillings for time workers and of fifteen percent for piece workers and Ministry of Munition bonuses. A million and a half workers are affected. The efforts to secure a settlement continue.

The Minister of Labor, Dr. Macnamara, conferred with the employers yesterday and will confer privately with representatives of the men today.

MAN IS KILLED BY LEAPING FROM BURNING BUILDING

Fire Sweeps Through Three Shops On Shantung Road

One man was killed and at least one other injured by leaping from the upper floors of burning buildings on Shantung Road late last night when fire swept through and gutted three shops.

The outbreak occurred shortly before midnight, originating in a printing establishment at 8 Shantung Road, just north of Avenue Edward VII. The flames, rapidly spread to a macaroni shop on the south and to a cigarette and exchange shop on the north, the progress being so fast that inmates on the upper floors of these places had barely time to escape. The Chinese who was killed evidently leaped from one of the rear windows, striking the pavement with his head. He was discovered by the police and was sent to Shantung Road hospital but life was found to be extinct. The other man suffered bruises when he jumped from a balcony.

The fire department was handicapped by poor water pressure but managed by strenuous work to check the blaze effectively in about twenty minutes. The French department stood by to render assistance if it had proved necessary.

Canton Mechanics Send Ultimatum

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, June 8.—The mechanics at Canton who are demanding shorter working hours and increased wages, have addressed a third ultimatum to their employers, demanding a satisfactory reply within two days and refusing to make any concessions on their demands.

BY-ELECTION

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 7.—A bye-election necessitated by the elevation of Mr. Walter Long (Coalition Unionist) to the peerage, held in the St. George's Division of Westminster, has resulted in Mr. Erskine, the Conservative "anti-waste" candidate, defeating Sir Charles Jessel, the official Coalition candidate. The voting was as follows:

The Colombia, due at San Francisco July 9, will be displaced in the Oriental service by the new vessel, the Empress State, the second of the new big 5,375-tonners to be allocated to the Pacific Mail Company. The Empress State is due at Shanghai on its first trip, on August 14.

The Colombia is the second of the old Pacific Mail steamers to give way to the larger newer boats, the Venezuela already having arrived at San Francisco after its last voyage, and now undergoing preparation for the institution of the San Francisco-Baltimore service via the Panama Canal. The last of the old boats to leave the Oriental run of the Pacific Mail will be the Ecuador which will reach Shanghai on its final voyage on July 22.

Carpenters' Strike Rapidly Dwindling

The carpenters' and masons' strike showed further signs of cracking yesterday when more men returned to their jobs.

There still has been no meeting between guild officials and the representatives of the strikers, though another request for the appearance of the strikers' delegation has been made by the former organization, following a conference between the Shanghai City Magistrate and a committeeman of the guild.

The Magistrate, Mr. Shen Pao-chang, was told by the guild representative that the supposed committee of workers, which includes fourteen names, could not be located and that the guild had received no formal requests of any kind. Moreover, the names of the fourteen representatives appear to be unknown to the workmen. The Magistrate expressed the opinion that in the face of this information it would appear that the instigators of the disturbance were simply loafers who hoped to profit by extorting money and stealing tools from artisans who failed to go out. He therefore directed that the guild issue a circular notice calling upon the men to return to their jobs and also that another request be made to the representatives of the strikers, if there are any, to make formal presentation of their demands to the guild within two days.

Seven masons arrested Tuesday after they had tried to induce the workers in a new building on Kinneer Road to quit were tried in the Mixed Court yesterday and were fined $7 each, with the alternative of a week in jail.

mission for Mr. Andrew to proceed to the Fengshiang district.

Prior to this Mr. Shorrocks had been refused permission to go there and before that again Brigadier-General Pereira, who desired to go through Fengshiang on the way to Szechuan, had also been refused.

On May 15, the Tuchen's Chief of Staff sent Mr. Andrew a letter to Colonel Chen who is commanding the troops at Fufenghsien, 110 li east of Fengshiang. The Chief of Staff promised that Colonel Chen would give Mr. Andrew all the assistance in his power. Mr. Andrew arrived at Fufenghsien on May 18 and promptly interviewed Colonel Chen, who asked what Mr. Andrew proposed to do. The latter replied that he thought the only thing Wei would agree to was the exchange of Mr. Stevens for his father. Chen admitted that Mr. Wei, Senior, was in Colonel Chang's camp but said that without the permission of the Tuchen they would not dare to hand the old man over.

The situation is then summed up as follows:

The Tuchen holds thirteen relatives of Major Wei's men, including Wei's father. Through a letter received from Mr. Stevens it is learned that in the event of these people being released and one of them being sent to Major Wei to inform him of the fact Mr. Stevens would be released. Wei is not likely to harm Mr. Stevens, through fear of reprisal against his father.

MURDER HEARING IS CONTINUED IN BRITISH COURT

Witnesses Tell Of Shooting Of Clerks By Sinhalese

The British Police Court hearing was continued yesterday in the case of K. Peters, the Sinhalese charged with the murder of two Chinese shop assistants at 284-5 North Szechuen Road last Sunday. After the evidence of the Chinese witnesses had been taken the hearing was adjourned until this afternoon.

The case came before Magistrate G. W. King and Chief Inspector MacGregor appeared for the police while Mr. J. G. Priestwood watched the proceedings in behalf of the families of the victims and Mr. F. J. Schull on behalf of the Cantonese Guild. The accused was unrepresented and did not question the witnesses.

A plan of the shop where the tragedy occurred was submitted to the court and then Dr. G. W. Tucker gave evidence as to the character of the wounds causing death, a bullet through the brain in one case and one through the throat in the other. Mr. R. N. McKinstry, of the Municipal Health Office, who attended the post mortems, corroborated.

Employment of the shop were then called and told of Peters' purchase last Friday of a $1 bottle of perfume, of his return to have it changed next day, the refusal, and his return on Sunday, when, after another refusal to exchange the purchase, he drew a revolver and shot the two assistants. The proprietor of the shop was also called to the witness box.

Shareholders' Union Of China Merchants' Company Fight Mixed Court Ruling

Diplomatic Pressure Sought By Newly Organised Body To Rescind Injunction Granted By Italian Assessor On Application Of Italian Employee

Diplomatic pressure is sought to bring about the rescinding of the injunction granted by the Mixed Court against the China Merchants' Steam Navigation, Ltd., China's premier shipping company. The injunction was to restrain the defendants from carrying out resolutions passed and election held at the annual meeting on May 28, which included the depriving of office of Fu Siao-en and Chen Yung-ling, directors.

The application, which was granted by Italian Assessor Ferrajolo and Magistrate Yue, was made by Chen Yung-ling, interpreter for Mr. G. D. Musso, Italian attorney. Chen, according to other shareholders, represents but 172 of the 80,000 shares issued by the company.

The request for diplomatic pressure was made in a lengthy telegram filed by the newly organised union of shareholders of the company at 110 Bubbling Well Road, representing 70,000 odd shares. The signatories to the message include Mr. Chang Tz-peng, late Vice-Minister of Justice, Lin Cho-fung and Li Wen-hou, executive heads of the union, and others.

The telegram, which was despatched to the president, cabinet and the Ministers of Foreign Affairs, Communications and Agriculture and Commerce, follows:

"The minutes of the annual general meeting of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation held on May 28 have been duly telegraphed to Cabinet and the Ministries. However, on the following day, Chen Yung-ling, who alleges himself as a shareholder representing 172 shares, applied for an injunction in the Mixed Court against the company. The Court ordered that the new board of directors could not be formed and that the old one should function as usual.

"Furthermore, the retiring director, Fu Siao-en, accompanied by other shareholders, charged the company with holding an illegal election and telegraphically petitioned the Ministry of Communications for an investigation.

PURELY CHINESE AFFAIR
"We shareholders are aware of the importance of maintaining the sovereign rights of the nation and preserving the interest of our investment. The company is a purely Chinese concern, registered with the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce and under the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Communications. Should questions arise from the legality of the election, it is a dispute among the shareholders themselves and it should be dealt with by the competent executive meetings and await the decision of the Ministry.

"Besides the old directors whose services have been retained by the shareholders, there is only Fu Siao-en whose charge against the company for holding an illegal election disqualifies him as an executive for the present. Therefore, no meeting of the old board can be called, leaving the company thus without an administrative organ.

"This is very dangerous. So the shareholders union proposes to elect Li Kuo-chi, former vice-chairman of the board, and Sheng Chung-yi, former managing director to carry out the duties of the board of directors pending the reorganisations of the board".

Authorities Seek U.S. Army Deserter

A. E. Norman, Of 15th Infantry Captured But Escapes

The United States authorities here are looking for A. E. Norman, a deserter from the 15th Infantry, stationed at Tientsin, who was recognised and arrested by members of the 15th Infantry baseball team during the recent series, but escaped by leaping from the second story window of his lodgings at 134 Haskell Road.

Norman was under guard at the time, having requested that he be allowed to go to his rooms and change his clothes before being locked up in the American jail. He pretended to be packing up his belongings and while the attention of his guard was distracted sprang out of the window and fled.

No Governmental Change At H'kong

(Reuter's Service)
London, June 7.—Replying in the House of Commons to a question regarding a more popular form of government in Hongkong, the Parliamentary Under-Secretary for the Colonies, Major E. L. Wood, declared that the Government had carefully considered the Governor's report and had come to the conclusion that no change was at present necessary, but the Governor would no doubt bring up the question again when a change became desirable.

HOW OLD DO YOU LOOK?

Old age is altogether a matter of years. People of seventy or eighty often look twenty years younger. On the other hand it is not unusual to see a man or woman of thirty who has the appearance of a person of fifty.

If you would retain your vigor, strength and ambition keep your blood and nerves in good condition. Anemia or thin blood lowers the vitality, starves the nerves and causes a general run-down condition. When the blood is thin the skin loses its color, the shoulders droop, weight is lost and lines cross the face. These are the outward changes wrought by the disease. The victim of anemia loses appetite, suffers from indigestion, headaches, sleeplessness, nervousness and exhaustion after slight effort.

Do not delay. If you have any or all of these symptoms begin treatment now with Dr. Williams' pink pills, the world-famous blood and nerve tonic. You will be surprised to note the improvement in your condition after a few weeks. Almost the first effect of the treatment will be an improved appetite. As the blood becomes enriched the color returns to the cheeks and elasticity to the step. Headaches, nervousness, sleeplessness and weakness soon disappear.

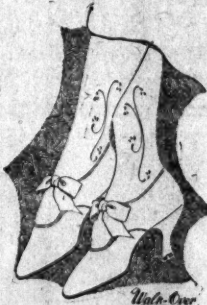

Get a bottle of Dr. Williams' pink pills at your druggist's today, or write to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 66 Swanton Road, Shanghai enclosing $1.50, and a bottle will be sent you, post paid. A little book, "Building Up the Blood," which explains the treatment, will be sent free on request.

OUTLINE GIVEN OF PROGRAM FOR FOURTH OF JULY

Heads Of Various American Organisations Making
Plans For Holiday

Members of a committee composed of the heads of all the larger American organisations of Shanghai have in hand arrangements that are being made for this year's observance of the Fourth of July. The committee's first meeting was held at the American Consulate on Tuesday when preliminary plans for the celebration of the holiday were discussed.

It is probable that this year's observance of the Fourth of July will be like those of preceding years, but it is intended to make it more general in character and several new features may be introduced. It has not been stated when the official program will be announced.

Every American business establishment in Shanghai will be expected to fly the Stars and Stripes and it is likely also that the flag will be flown from American residences on the Fourth. While details of the program have not been arranged it is understood that an event of the day will be a social gathering and dance at the Columbia Country Club.

The customary reception will be held at the American Consulate and the American Club will hold open house when members will entertain friends of other nationalities.

In the afternoon a baseball game is to be staged, probably between the Shanghai team and a team from the U. S. S. Huron, flagship of the American Asiatic fleet. Visitors will also be received in the course of the day aboard the flagship and it is hoped that Admiral Strauss will be present.

Says Peking Halts Mine Development

(Reuter's Service)
London, June 8.—Referring to the Society of Arts' recent offer of a prize for the best paper on the mineral resources of China, the Times Peking correspondent points out that this subject has already been exhaustively treated. He says that what is really wanted is a discussion of the development of China's mineral resources. The Bureau of Mines at Peking, he declares, does nothing for mining except draft stragulatory regulations, and the mining development of China, so far as foreigners are concerned, remains at the starting-point where it stood in 1903.

Gives More Details In Famine Fraud Case

The two Chinese accused of fraudulently securing money in San Francisco under the pretext that it was to go toward China famine relief were again before the Mixed Court yesterday when Mr. S. Fessenden applied for bail.

In opposing the motion Detective Sub-Inspector Kay stated that though the fraud actually accomplished was not large, it might have developed into something much greater but for the merest chance. A letter had been received by the local Chinese Famine Relief Committee from an unknown Chinese in New York who made inquiry regarding an advertisement published in San Francisco Chinese papers. The advertisement, an appeal for funds, gave the names of four prominent Chinese officials as patrons, who, it had been learned, knew nothing of the matter. The address to which subscriptions were to be sent was that of the second accused, Mr. Fessenden's client. The police have not yet finished their investigation and are still trying to trace checks for $3250 which are known to have been received here. There were three registered letters also which the American postal authorities are now trying to trace.

The court ordered the accused released on $1,000 shop security each, but it is understood that this was later cancelled.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies.

Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures, and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

"Began to think she would never get well."

Our Portrait is of Miss FLORENCE ORGAN, of 100, Clark Street, Lakewood, Birmingham, England, whose father writes:
"My daughter Florence was suffering with a very bad head covered with sores and had been in bed for several months. I decided to give her 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' a fair trial in the case of my daughter, and I am pleased to say it effected a wonderful cure in just over a fortnight."
SUFFERERS from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Piles, Eczema, Boils, Blotches, Scabs, Fimples, Eruptions, Rheumatism, Gout, should realize that lotions and ointments can but give temporary relief; to be sure of complete and lasting benefit the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter the root cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes and expels the impurities; that is why so many repulsive, revolting sores stand to its credit. Pleasant to take, and free from injurious ingredients.

HONGKONG WINS TENNIS DOUBLES FROM SHANGHAI IN THREE STRAIGHT SETS

Pott and Mansel-Smith Easily Defeated By Ng And Wei Before Large Crowd At The Country Club; Home Players Outclassed

Ng Sze-kwong and W. Lock Wei, the team chosen to represent Hongkong in the doubles of the inter-port tennis series, made rather short work of Messrs. Mansel-Smith and Pott, the Shanghai team, in a spirited match at the Country Club yesterday afternoon. The visitors won three straight sets, 7-5, 6-3 and 8-6.

Each team directed its play, for the most part, toward the supposedly weaker half of the opposition, with the result that during a great deal of the time the match looked more like a singles than a doubles, with Messrs. Wei and Mansel-Smith carrying the greater part of the burden. And had Mansel-Smith been a trifle better on defense there might have been a different story to tell. It so happened, however, that the Shanghai man could not keep them out of the net, and this contributed largely to his team's defeat.

Wei, the Hongkong player on whom the burden of defense rested largely, had a good day, some of his returns being miraculous. He, too, drove into the net frequently on sure thing kills, but not so much as his taller opponent. His back hand strokes were beautiful and effective.

NO PLAYS WELL

Ng Sze-kwong for Hongkong, put up a brilliant game on both offense and defense. He was deadly on ground balls and raced all over the court for some remarkable gets. In this respect he was not much better than Pott, who, however, was not up to his old form, particularly in the execution of placement shots. The local star still is bothered by his game knee, which apparently hampered his movements considerably. When he was at the net Pott swapped strokes with both Ng and Wei, but no one of the trio having an edge, but in the back court game the Shanghai man was not as agile or as accurate as the Crown colony champion.

The contest was enlivened by numerous sharp volleys, the ball flying back and forth endlessly, some of the recoveries on both sides being miraculous. In the lobs, the Hongkong team was hardly superior, due to the Shanghai fault of driving into the net on attempted kills. Mansel-Smith being guilty on this score more frequently than his partner.

Neither service was particularly brilliant, but that of the pair from Hongkong was the more consistent. The visitors seemed confident of winning without the necessity of any undue waste of strength in their service. Their strategy consisted in keeping the ball in the air as much as possible, relying more on the weakness of the opposition's defense than on their own offensive game. It proved to be good tactics, since the Shanghai men, particularly Mansel-Smith, seldom failed to drive the ball into the net whenever one of the visitors lobbed it up for them to hit.

SHANGHAI STARTS WELL

Shanghai started off rather well the games standing 3 to 1 in favor of the home team shortly after play commenced, chiefly by reason of some particularly fine lobbing by Pott. At this point the visitors began to press Mansel-Smith, every return being directed at him whenever possible. By this method the visitors soon carried the games to a decisive Mansel-Smith then developed a temporary streak of wildness, most of his smashes going either into the net or beyond the base line. The Hongkong team took quick advantage of this, running out the set in short order. The game and point scores for the first set were:

Hongkong, 4 3 2 2 6 1 4 4 7 4 4 5 7

Shanghai, 0 5 4 4 4 2 2 0 6 5 0 3 6 5

In the second set the Hongkong team started with a rush, winning two games in a twinkling. Then the home team captured one, after which the visitors quickly annexed two more. Then followed the longest single game of the match, the score going to deuce six times before the issue was decided, finally, in favor of the home team. This encouraged the Shanghai players set sail for the next game, which also went to deuce. The visitors holed them out, however, and with that game went the last chance for winning the set, as the visitors quickly annexed the next and deciding game. Scores of the second set were:

Hongkong, 4 4 0 4 4 8 5 2 7 3 8 6

Shanghai, 2 0 4 1 0 10 3 4 5 2 9 3

In the third and last set the Shanghai team made a gallant recovery after the visitors had run the games to 4 love, and when it seemed to be all over but the hand shaking. At this point Pott got into the game like a house afire.

SAYS "BUGS" Baer:

INFANT PRODIGY SOURS THE MILK

Acts Like A Baby In The Ring With Gink And Refuses To Sleep

BY "BUGS" BAER

When training for a championship thumping duel, Gink Fowler never allowed sentiment to interfere with profits. He was so kind hearted that he never struck an opponent while he was on his feet. Owing to the bandits infesting Roughtown, Gink never lacked for sparring partners and some of his best road work was done when a fellow citizen's shrill voice split the night air in a cry for help. Gink would do his road work right there.

In the ring his seconds would rub him down with a broken bottle and smooth him off with sandpaper. Then he would eat a plate of softboiled clinders and wash it down with wood alcohol.

He was always on the alert and ready to protect himself. Whenever he stayed out all night with the boys in the Roughtown buffet, nobody ever caught Gink napping with his hands in his pockets. When the barkeep spanked the gong in the cash register Gink would start shadow boxing with his free lunch.

He never got bald—and there's some suspicion that the bristles on his skull were rubberst. His drinking muscles were highly developed through constant practice, and never a day passed that Gink didn't chin himself on the horizontal mahogany bar. He once issued a sweeping defi to Billy, but picked up a splinter when he signed on the dotted line with an infant prodigy.

The Infant Prodigy accepted Gink's promise and Roughtown waited the contest with unabated breath. Gink trained faithfully and no man's nose was ever in pinker condition on the night he was assisted into the ring.

There was a hush in the gigantic arena when a powerful male nurse came down the aisle in a borrowed bathrobe. He was carrying an infant in his arms, falling lightly through the ropes, he placed the child in the water bucket and slipped out of his bathrobe like an overripe banana out of its peel.

He was the Infant Prodigy. The baby itself was a wooden marshall, used to decoy Gink into knuckle range. Gink turned paler than a one-flight-up blue serge suit in the hot July sun. Caesar had his Brutus, Napoleon his Waterloo and Pilsner its Volstead Act.

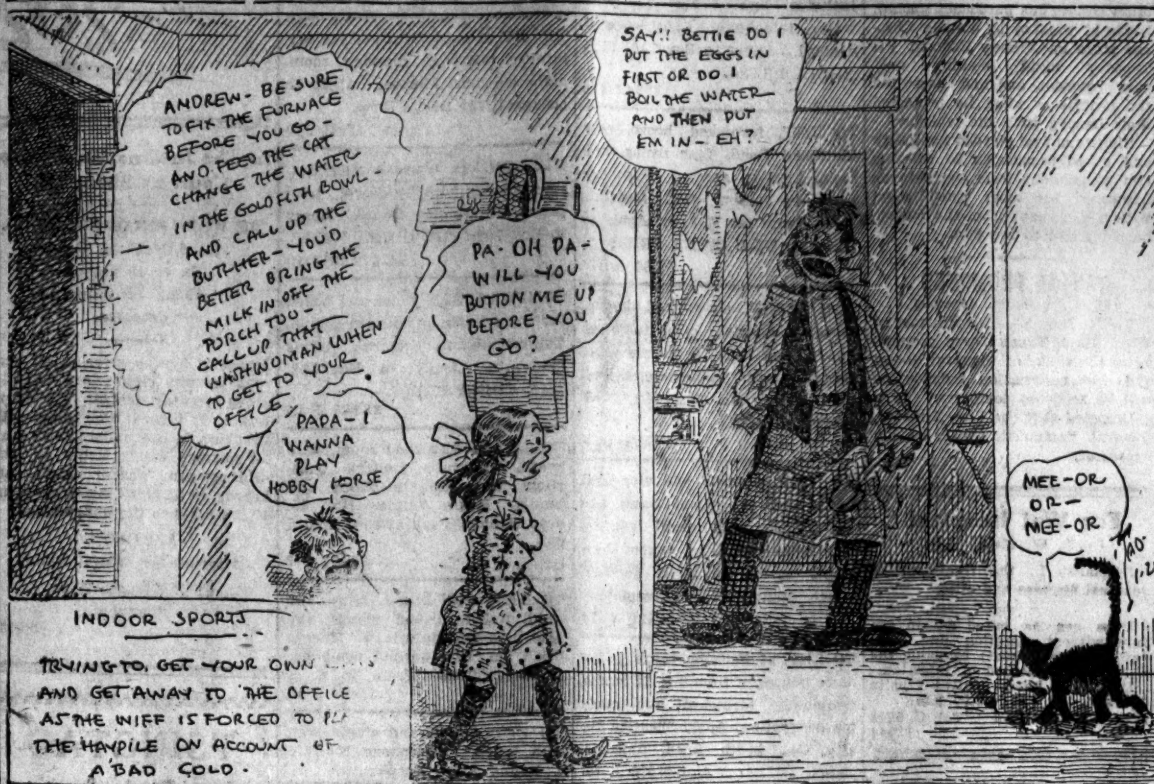

The Infant Prodigy weighed about 600 pounds tableside, was about seven feet from his flat arches to his busted ear drums and was healthy enough to claim exemption in the 45 to 90-year army draft.

The gong rang like an ambulance on a crowded street. What happened that night sends shivers down its well-known bankruptcy. The Roughtown Chamber of Commerce refused to accept the referee's decision, the Roughtown Senate refused to pass the bill and the Roughtown Mayor vetoed it.

What he was on canvas, Gink was still the champion on paper. Let France have its Versailles, Brooklyn its street car strikes, but Roughtown had the only indisputable champion in the world.

World's Heavyweight Champion Hard At It

Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, is training faithfully at Freddie Welch's training camp in Summit, N. J. for his coming title bout with Georges Carpentier, European champion.

Raising that he will have to be in the pink of condition to combat with the Frenchman on July 2 at Jersey City, Dempsey is down to hard work and not be caught off his guard as he was in his fight with Brennan, in which the champion gave a miserable exhibition because of his lack of condition. The above photos were made at Welch's camp.

GINK'S METHODS USED BY CHAMP IN TRAINING CAMP

Aluminum Headgear And Pneumatic Gloves On Dempsey's Program

(Reuter's Service)
New York, June 7.—An army of international journalists has assembled here to report on the training on Dempsey and Carpentier for their forthcoming fight. The latter is hedged in by portentous secrecy in a sylvan retreat at Manhaasset, surrounded by high walls, but he relaxes these restrictions thrice weekly when a group of favored journalists is admitted for a short talk.

Dempsey, on the other hand, is training in the utmost publicity at a gymnasium in Atlantic City which has been designed as an open air theater and is daily crowded, fifty percent of the spectators being women, with whom the champion is enormously popular. Dempsey wears pneumatic gloves, his partners wearing aluminum head guards as a protection against his much advertised terrible punch.

Dempsey states his intention to adopt tactics like in the Willard fight and to go after Carpentier from the start. Carpentier is confident of knocking out Dempsey in the fourth round and both agree that the fight is not likely to last longer than four rounds. Dempsey re-opened an old cut over his eye while sparring and has been compelled to cease practice for some days.

NEW MANAGER IS ELECTED BY BASEBALL COMMITTEE; GAME SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

J. H. Ross Replaces Johnny Knowlan, Resigned; Regulars And "Reds" Due For Argument At Race Course This Afternoon

The Executive Committee of the Shanghai Amateur Baseball Club met at the American Club last evening for the purpose of electing a manager to replace Johnny Knowlan, who resigned last Sunday. J. H. Ross was named to fill the post.

Several members of the team were on hand to interject a stipulation that, in case a non-playing manager were selected, there be no bench-plotting of the nine while it is on the field. This was approved by the meeting, which agreed that Cap Willhoit is to have sole charge while the boys are pastimeing.

A game between the Regulars and the "Reds" is scheduled to take place at the Race Course at 5 p.m. today, when the Insurrectors will try to demonstrate the superiorities of soviet baseball.

BOLSHEVIKI REHEARSE
Maloney had his Bolsheviki out for a fast workout at the Race Course yesterday afternoon, and he had several new men who showed for the first time this season, because of the prospect of getting a chance at play with the new split up of the candidates into Regular and Second teams. Lilley showed up and looked mighty good in the outfield grabbing off fungoes. He also worked at first during the infield practice, in the absence of Brister, who failed to show.

Henworth also worked in the outfield for the first time this year. He took a good workout, then sat down on the bench panting, but he says he'll be out regular from now on. Nelson was another outfielder that showed some form. With these new men out, and working hard in practice the Shanghai baseball teams, first and second, will soon have a string of men that will fight the old timers hard for their berths.

In the infield work Lilley took first, Jack Smith second, Wolfe short and Hendrickson third. Maloney rapped them out in fast real-game style, and Hoag gathered them up as they came back to the plate. The work was fast and true. Hendrickson at third unfolded a nice lot of fielding tricks and a sharp and accurate throw to first. Wolfe at short soon will be pushing Bills for his regular job, while Smith at second played his usual hard and safe game.

The game this afternoon between the Regulars and the Tavarishi promises to develop more interest in local baseball than anything that has been pulled as yet. The many men who have never yet had a chance to perform before the local fans have all taken on a new lease of optimism, and, incidentally are springing some surprises in the way of class and form. Cy Willhoit, after a week or two of the split club work, will have a better idea of the merits of his men than he could possibly have with the benches full of extras, untried and unknown.

'War' Resolutions Go To Conference

Washington, June 7.—The House of Representatives has received a report from the Foreign Affairs Committee, recommending the adoption of the Porter resolution—declaring that Congress fully concurs with President Harding's intention of calling an international conference on the limitation of armaments, and appropriating $100,000 for preliminary expenses—together with Mr. Porter's other resolution—terminating the state of war with Germany and Austria—as a substitute for the Knox resolution. sending back impossible returns, and racing all over the court. His service, too, seemed to bother the Hongkong players, and try as they would they could not break through. The effort proved too much, however, as the visitors, after weathering the gale, pressed on for two more games and final victory. The scores of the last set were:

Sailor Is Fined For Assaulting Chinese

A fine of twenty-five dollars and costs was imposed upon A. A. Bigham, a sailor from the U.S.S. Huron yesterday afternoon in the United States Court for China by Commissioner F. J. Schuhl, after a hearing of a police charge of disorderly conduct.

Sub-inspector John Wilson who conducted the case for the police brought out that Bigham with two other sailors had purchased a small bottle of whiskey at a little Chinese store on Avenue Edward VII Tuesday night, making only part payment, and had assaulted the proprietor when he protested their leaving with the whiskey.

Bigham at first pleaded not guilty and asked permission to call his two companions from the ship as witnesses, but after consultation with a lieutenant from the Huron, he submitted to the fine.

An American Staff Officer On Siberia

(Japan Chronicle)

IN view of the Kappellat coup in Vladivostok and the suspicion widely current that it was encouraged, if not organized, by the Japanese, it is of interest to turn to the experiences of an American staff officer in Siberia, as published in The New York Times Current History. Captain Sidney C. Graves is a West Point graduate who served on the Mexican border and in Mexico, and who fought in France for a year as Captain of an Infantry regiment where he won various honors and the temporary rank of Major. Later he joined the American Expeditionary Force in Siberia, which was commanded by his father, General W. S. Graves, and became an assistant to the Chief of Staff and liaison officer to the various Allied headquarters at Vladivostok. He was thus in a peculiarly favorable position to see what was going on and to estimate the motives and objects of the various parties engaged. In July 1920 he resigned with the rank of Captain, thus regaining the private citizen's privilege of publishing such facts as were in his possession. He comes unhesitatingly to the conclusion that from the first Japan intended to extend her influence over Siberia and possibly to expand her territory at the same time. "In the joint expedition to Siberia in 1918," says Captain Graves, "Japanese statesmen saw an opportunity to gain control of Manchuria and the Chinese Eastern Railway, and also, if not prevented by America, to shut off Russia territorially as a potential enemy." Perhaps it would be more correct to say that the military party in Japan made the decision, for the "statesmen seem to have been more or less puppets, though they aided the military by employing the diplomatic machine in favor of the scheme Japan was encouraged in her policy by the Ishihara-Lansing agreement which, says Captain Graves, "convinced Tokio that the United States would go to no great lengths to prevent Japan's annexation of Manchuria, and perhaps of Eastern Siberia and the Japanese Government's plans, drawn up in common with independent Cossack leaders already in Japanese pay, were well laid."

When the Lansing-Ishihara agreement was first published, we ventured to point out its dangers and the influence it would have in encouraging the forward movement in Japan. Mr. Lansing had had a good deal to say about President Wilson's failure at Paris but he has so far not given any explanation of the reason for this preposterous agreement to which his name is attached, though it is evident that it seriously affected the position of the United States in the Far East.

As Captain Graves points out the purpose of the joint American-Japanese expedition to Siberia, as stated by both Governments, was "to assist the evacuation of the Czech-Slovaks, and to render moral and material aid towards the rehabilitation of the Russian people without interference in their internal affairs." Both Governments pledged themselves to take no part in the factional strife, guaranteed the territorial integrity of Russia, and agreed to withdraw when in the opinion of either country, the aforesaid objects had been achieved. The maximum force of each was fixed at 13,000 men. America sent 7,000 men. Within six months Japan had 72,500 soldiers in Manchuria and Siberia, and was steadily increasing her complement. This is again a justification of the figures published in our columns at the time, which were declared to be inaccurate by some 25 percent.

From the first, says Captain Graves, the Japanese, seeing clearly that control of the railways assured military and economic domination of Eastern Siberia, directed their efforts towards turning the Inter-Allied Railway Agreement to their own advantage. By virtue of the Military Agreement between Japan and China, Japan demanded that the Chinese troops guarding the Chinese Eastern Railway be commanded by Japanese officers. Peking declined, whereupon the Japanese moved troops into Manchuria and occupied important points along the line, which attained the object they had in view. "As a result," says Captain Graves, "Manchuria is today a Japanese province, which Japan will go to war to retain."

Semenoff at Chita and Kalmikoff 400 miles north of Vladivostok on the Amur branch of the railway—both Tsarist and reactionary—were paid and directed by the Japanese. They murdered, burnt, and robbed at their will and their troops committed atrocities which kept all Eastern Siberia in a state of fear and revolt. The Japanese, Captain Graves asserts, encouraged these marauding expeditions, and even sent columns of their own, under the guise of fighting Bolshevism, to shell defenceless villages and to execute many of the inhabitants. While representatives of the American State Department seemed only too willing to credit Japanese assurances of non-interference, General Graves, the commander of the American expedition, by preventing Japanese activities in his sectors, was an obstacle to Japan's designs. As a result newspapers were subsidised to create feeling against the United States among the Russian people, and Semenoff and Kalmikoff were paid to provoke hostilities with American troops. Captain Graves gives a striking example of this policy, in which, after Kalmikoff was paid Y.30,000 by the Japanese, he arrested an American officer and soldier for not being in possession of Russian passports, which had never been required, and the soldier was almost beaten to death with Cossack whips.

He goes on to relate how, under cover of the discord created in the Maritime Province, Japan seized the Russian half of Saghalien and the fishery rights along the coast. All opposition on the part of the local population in the Maritime Province was ruthlessly suppressed, and only the presence of the Americans prevented at that time the virtual annexation of South-eastern Siberia. He recites instances of the behavior of Semenoff's bandits. "Japan," he says, "repeatedly denied her connection with these independent Cossacks, but the records of the American expedition are conclusive proof to the contrary." Kalmikoff was eliminated in the revolt of January, 1920, while Rozanoff at Vladivostok escaped to Japanese headquarters in the troops of the new provisional Government entered the city. Then came the withdrawal of the American expedition, and five days after the departure of the Americans the Japanese attacked and decisively defeated the forces of the new Government at Vladivostok.

Since Captain Graves wrote, the puppet Government set up by the Japanese has shown an increasing dislike of Japanese domination, and ultimately entered into co-operation with Chita. We have seen the result in the last few days. The Kappellists have gradually been concentrating in the city while the Japanese preserved "perfect neutrality" with the exception that they disarmed the local militia. When the moment was ripe, the Kappellists, who retained their arms suddenly overthrew the Government and now hold the city under the benevolent neutrality of the Japanese.

In view of the evidence produced by Captain Graves, it is absurd to pretend that the Japanese are in Siberia with the object of preserving law and order as far as may be. He refers sarcastically to the excuses offered in Tokyo for the most flagrant Japanese actions—"the oft-repeated and absurd claim that individual acts of military representatives do not reflect the sentiment of Japan, where the military party was on the wane."

It is significant to note that it is the opinion of Captain Graves the efforts of Japanese Liberals to minimise the influence of the militarists in Japan had considerable effect on the American attitude. "Our diplomatic representatives," he said, "in spite of repeated evidence of a well-thought-out plan of annexation, continued to credit such protestations and to hope that the Japanese command would change its tactics." Thus the practical influence of Japanese Liberals was in reality to strengthen the militarists, by disarming the diplomatic criticism that might have compelled a change of policy. Captain Graves believes that as a result of the free hand which the militarists have obtained, the Siberian littoral has to all intents and purposes passed into the hands of Japan. "If Russia," he says, "were today a united and powerful empire it is doubtful whether she could dislodge the Japanese from her territory, as a relatively small force, holding the strategic key as does Japan, would be almost invincible."

Dr. Sidney Gulick, the American Christian missionary who during the war with Russia urged Japan to seize Eastern Siberia and refuse to surrender it, must be very pleased that the eminent pacific policy which he advocated has come within a measurable distance of realisation. Captain Graves asks what are the objects of Japan's policy, which has been a heavy burden on her taxpayers, and is likely to remain so. In his opinion Japan desires the abrogation of the "open door" policy in China and the establishment of an Asiatic Monroe doctrine. Britain can be kept quiet by fear of Oriental intrigue and propaganda in India, while China can be devastated by civil war and subsidies to officials. Russia and America were the two chief obstacles to Japan's policy. The former is out of the struggle for the time, and by the Japanese possession of the littoral of the Maritime Province no revival of Russia will essentially change the situation. The Japan Sea becomes a Japanese lake, well guarded at all entrances against any attack having the object of securing railway terminals and defeating Japan's aspirations for military and commercial domination in the Far East. He predicts that if Japan is allowed to proceed with her policy unmolested America, in a relatively short period, will face an empire almost as great as that of Germany in 1914, "which will insist to the point of war that we abandon the Far East and the Western Pacific Ocean." We do not believe the position is quite as menacing as Captain Graves conceives. Like other countries Japan's policy is rather one of a short-sighted opportunism, whether directed by militarists or civilians, than of deeply laid and far-reaching plans. Nevertheless, Captain Graves' article is worth the serious attention of all Japanese publicists as indicating the conclusions drawn by foreign observers of Japanese imperialistic designs as the result of the free hand given the military party in this country.

When Pa Puts Up The Screens

BY S. E. KISER

When mad dogs gallop down the street it's time for climbing trees, And folks gets into trouble when they play with bumble bees; One time they wuz a crazy man come up to our front door, And such a yell as ma let out I never heard before; We all got nearly poisoned wunst by eatin' boughen greens; The worst existment happens, tho, when pa puts up the screens. He hollers for the hammer, and the saw is lost somewhere; Ma says "Don't tell the nabers," but he duzzent seem to care; You'd surprised if you could hear the office noise he makes; He nearly always tairs his pants or else the ladder brakes; It's time to sneak around the block and hike for other scenes. Unless you want to git a shock—when pa puts up the screens. He pounds his thumb and gits his hair all filled with rust and grit. And never finds a single screen that he can git to fit; He splits the wood by puttin' nails in where they don't belong; He seems to try to do his best, but everything goes rong; One time the preacher passed, and now he knows what swearin' means. Becoz it was the day when pa was puttin' up the screens. I wist they wuzent enny flies or enny bugs at all, And no musketoes that comes in and sticks against the wall; Then pa might have a chance to go to heaven when he dies, And ma would not get scolded at for wantin' to advise; She says she thinks that it's too bad that some men don't know beans, And always gits upset and sad when pa puts up the screens.

WHICH IS MUCH NICER

A suggestion made by Mr. K. M. Cumming that the swimming bath be reserved for mixed bathing one afternoon per week was defeated, but, after some discussion, members agreed unanimously to allot one evening weekly for mixed bathing—vide Press.

Pass me the lyre: To take one afternoon a week, Devote it to mixed bathing. (Nothin' doin')

A piece of badly daylighted cheek Put down by language seathin'— (Two'd be our ruin.)

But when the Sun sinks in the west And night begins to fall: When mosquitoes begin to jest, And frogs their mates to call; Then once a week, both man and maid, At water-polo scrambling Can splash till all the colors fade In costumes most be—CUMMING.

THE TEST

The English team to oppose Australia in the second test match was published in yesterday's paper. Hobbs will be missed, but I see that C. B. Fry is back again. C. B. is capable of anything. Some of us had imagined that he had passed into the Land-of-Has-beens, but here he is again, and accounted good enough to help regain "The Ashes."

In these turbulent days, when the country's ablaze, And everything crumbles and crashes, Though we might, on the whole, get along without coal, We simply must get back "The Ashes."

TALKING OF CRICKET

Have you read "My Cricketing Life" by P. F. Warner? The book is full of interest to anyone who knows one end of the bat from the other. "Plum" Warner, the great Middlesex captain, and leader of all England in many a "Test" struggle has played the game in nearly every part of the wide world, and he numbers among his friends all the men who have made cricket, and the playing of it, the pride of the sportsman.

In his book he has many a good story to tell. "Plum" Warner played his first cricket against black bowlers in the West Indies, where he was born. "I shall never forget," he writes, "how my old black nurse, Kitsey, embraced me in front of the hotel, when I went back to my birthplace with a cricket team, to the huge delight and amusement of the rest of the team. 'Oh, Puggie darling,' she cried, 'I am glad to see you. Let me look at you well—you not so pretty as you were—you pretty little boy; still not so bad!'"

FOUR MEN WITH ONE BALL. Perhaps the most remarkable feat recorded by "Plum" Warner in his book, is that of W. E. W. Collins, a fast left-handed bowler, who, against Australia in 1888, took six wickets for thirty-five runs. He once got rid of four men with one ball! The first man (No. 9) was hit on the thumb, and retired; the batsman at the other end fainted at the sight of blood; No. 10 declared he was d— if he was coming in to face such a wild cat, and there was no partner for the last man.

ILL SHOW YOU Mr. Warner first played for Middlesex in 1894, and he tells an amusing story of the Irish baronet, Sir T. C. O'Brien, who was then a member of the team. "Sugg, who played for Lancashire, was a fine hitter, and on his coming in to bat O'Brien remarked to him, 'Sugg, they tell me you've lost your hitting.' 'Who says that?' replied Sugg. 'Lost my hitting! I'll soon show you' and, jumping like a trout at a fly, he dashed down the pitch and was easily caught!

"Much the same fate befell another Lancastrian, Parkin, in the Gentlemen v. Players' match at Lord's in 1919. After hitting two fine fours in succession off Johnny Douglas, there came the tea interval, and when the game was resumed I said to Parkin, 'You're another Jessop.' 'Thank you, sir,' he replied, and the next ball had a most almighty 'go' and was clean bowled."

BITS FROM BOOKS

"In real life one worries much more about the income tax than one's love affairs. One knows one's love affairs are of the things which pass, while the income tax is always with us."

"There are two crimes men never forgive women: one is plainness accompanied by dullness, the other is dullness accompanied by plainness."

From "The Indignant Spintars" by Winifred Boggs.

NUT SED

The negro is fond of wearing jewellery and imitating western fashions. The wrist watch is much in vogue, even though few negroes can tell the time. One was swaggering along one day, showing off his wrist watch. "Say, nigger," said a man, looking over a prison wall, "what time is it?" The negro pretended not to hear. "Say, nigger, what time is it?" the man asked again. "What yo wanten know fo," the nigger snapped angrily, "you ain't goin' nowhere."

If our good people just know how many fine boys grit their teeth and behave themselves in spite of obstacles they would strive to help the boys in blue in every way possible. The finest service rendered the latter is the friendly and uncondescending association with them and trying to make the Navy men feel

That a few rowdies in uniform disgrace the latter and that all decent men in uniform must suffer for the few is a very grievous fact. How many of the fellows bitterly complain because a few "off oxen" have dragged their country's honor in the mire? We cannot blame many young fellows for "losing their way" out here in this land of many temptations—We do not want the clean chap to have to suffer for the sins of his erring brother. As Miss Elsie McCormick says many people cannot differentiate between the various types of men in uniform. Plowing Fiery Snow In Stellar Space

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
(Eminent Astronomer and Writer on Problems of Scientific Interest)

A superior being visiting the earth to see what little mortals are worth would probably pay but scant attention to what we generally regard as our greatest achievements and our "biggest men," but would be much impressed at the sight of an astronomer sitting in a dark corner on this insignificant "footstool" and trying to figure out the meaning of things many trillions of miles away, of whose existence he has only learnt through the aid of his telescope. That would strike the visitor as a very promising indication of the existence here below of the kind of common sense that prevails in higher realms.

And just at this moment he might see a fine example of such expansion of terrestrial intelligence in the explanation of the peculiar appearance and conduct of a little nebula in the constellation of Monoceros, which has been suggested, as a working hypothesis, by Professor Ernest W. Brown, of Yale.

This object, known to astronomers as "Hubble's variable nebula," has a kind of head or nucleus, followed by a faint fan-shaped luminosity, in which curious variations of light have been noticed. That doesn't sound very interesting to the layman, especially when he is told that the entire phenomena is only visible with powerful telescopes.

But the thing assumes a new aspect when viewed in the light of Professor Brown's suggestion, backed up by mathematical calculations, that what is actually seen there is the spectacle produced by a star plowing its way through a nebula and throwing the luminous spray in hyperbolic billows over billions of cubic miles of space.

Of course Professor Brown does not apply poetic expressions to the results of his analysis. But the imagination inevitably takes fire at the touch of such kindling facts as he deduces by the cold processes of mathematics. With his equations he shows the course of each of the countless streams of nebular particles under the impulse of the attraction of the plunging star and traces the fan-shaped fiery cone that must follow the star, proving that its outline accords with the shape of the object that the telescope reveals.

For some twenty years how this strange nebula has been under observation by astronomers, and the angle of the fan, during that time, has undergone no noticeable change, as it would have done if there had been any considerable variation in the speed of the star.

"The outstanding feature of the fan," says Professor Brown, "is its rapid, irregular variation in light-giving power in different parts while its outline remains approximately the same. These variations may be attributed to local variations of density in the swarm, and perhaps also to cumulative effects in the interior of the fan which are released in pluses rather than continuously."

Another feature of interest to everybody in Professor Brown's investigation of the extraordinary object in Monoceros is his statement that the investigation was begun in order to examine the possibilities that it might furnish of the evolution of a planetary system.

Modern scientific advance has so widened the thoughts of men that almost no intelligent person nowadays is indifferent to questions concerning the origin of worlds, and curiosity is awakened not only about the beginnings of our own rather inconsiderable world, but also about the coming into existence of other, and new, worlds, even though they lie in depths of space unfathomable except to the space, mathematics and imagination.

The latest preceding hypothesis of the origin of solar systems is the planetesimal theory, which assumes a scattering of matter into intersecting curves by the partial disruption of a body (star) subjected to the tidal strains of another great body passing by it.

These scattered particles, named planetesimals, are assumed, by their falling together at nodes, to give birth to planets circling around the greater body, or sun, from which their substance was torn. Professor Brown has not offered any development of a new theory of this sort based on his studies of the fan-shaped nebula, but he remarks that "with the knowledge which has been gathered of the distribution and motion of matter in space it appears that the passage of a star through widely diffused matter will be by no means a rare phenomenon like that of the close approach of two stars."

Short History Of The War

"Now cough."

"Sign here."

"When do we eat?"

"Haven't any 8's. Take a pair of 10's."

"There's a soldier in the grass."

"You're in the Army now."

"Treat 'em rough."

"Read 'em and weep."

"All we do is sign the payroll."

"It's a great life if you don't weaken."

"The first seven years are the hardest."

"Where do we go from here?"

"You can't stand there, soldier."

"Oo-la-la."

"Lafayette, we are here."

"Let's go."

"Any records on goldfish?"

"Madelon, Madelon, Madelon."

"Encore the vin rouge, see you play."

"Toot sweet, monsieur."

"Is your right arm paralysed?"

"Mother, take down your service flag; your son's in the S. O. S."

"Bonsoir, ma cherie, on allez-vous?"

"Paint it with iodine and mark him duty."

"Son fairy Ann."

"Heaven, Hell, or Hoboken by Christmas."

"Fin la guerre."

"In the Army, the Army, the democratic Army."

"So this is Paris!"

"Hinky-dinky, parlez-vous?"

"If I ever get out of this man's Army—"

"Who won the war?"

"There's a long, long trail a-winding."

"When do we go home?"

"We've paid our debt to Lafayette—who the heck do we owe now?"

"When the cruel war is over."

"Say 'ah-h-h' and sign here."

"Let's eat."

At The Isis

Patrons of the Isis Theatre are promised a treat tomorrow night, when Daisy Harcourt, the famous English comedienne, makes her first appearance. This is the first occasion on which she has visited Shanghai, and judging from American newspapers reports of her great success in the States, she will doubtless be given a particularly warm reception. She is a bright and versatile comedienne. The Eddy Duo, tight wire act, is another feature of the program.

A new Priscilla Dean picture,

"The Silk-Lined Burglar," a great crook drama of suspense in six parts will be screened.

Band Concert Today

The following program will, weather permitting, be given by the band in the Public Garden today, beginning at 5.30 p.m.:

1. March "Clear the Way" Douglas
2. Overture "Elizla and Claudia" Mercadante
3. Waltz "Plais d'Or" Waldteufel
4. Selection "Cox and Box" Sullivan
5. (a) One Step "Peter Gink" Cobb
(b) Fox Trot "I'm hitting the trail to Normandy" Snyder
6. Selection "Maritana" Wallace A. de Kryger, Assistant Conductor.
